ABOUT PETERSON & MYERS

A Hands-On Approach to Legal Representation

While we have adapted to clients' needs and to changing business climates, the principles upon which Peterson & Myers was founded have never wavered. We remain dedicated to quality – and to providing our clients with a personal, individualized approach to legal representation.

Since we first opened our doors in 1948, the firm has taken pride in our hands-on approach to clients' business matters. By working closely with clients, our attorneys develop longstanding relationships – avoiding the impersonal atmosphere that often exists in larger firms.

In short, Peterson & Myers offers the resources and capabilities of a larger firm, with the accessibility and personal touch of a smaller firm – giving clients “the best of both worlds” to meet their needs in today's highly competitive business environment.

An Emphasis on Community

The attorneys at Peterson & Myers are deeply committed to the communities in which they live and work. Many of our attorneys were born or raised in Central Florida. As active participants in various programs and organizations, members of the firm have risen to leadership positions and have personal relationships with many other community leaders.
